

School Psychology Assistant/Associate Professor

The Department of Graduate Psychology in the College of Integrated Science and Technology at James Madison University in Harrisonburg, Virginia, is seeking candidates to join our learning community as an Assistant or Associate Professor in School Psychology. Our departmental mission is to transform students into outstanding practitioners and scholars of psychology. We work to create a community that celebrates diversity and creativity, and that values learning, scholarship, and service to others.

This is a 9-month tenure-track position with supplementary compensation for summer teaching and practicum supervision. The School Psychology Program offers an Educational Specialist degree and is fully accredited by NASP/NCATE and the Virginia Department of Education. For more information about our program, visit <http://www.psyc.jmu.edu/school/>. For more information about our department, visit <http://www.psyc.jmu.edu/gradpsyc>.

The successful candidate will teach graduate courses, supervise graduate practicum experiences, conduct applied research relevant to the field of school psychology, direct graduate student research, and engage in service activities within the university and/or professional communities. Qualified applicants may be eligible for an endowed professorship, which would provide a salary supplement and other benefits.

REQUIRED QUALIFICATIONS:

Doctorate in School Psychology from an APA or NASP accredited program
Recent experiences delivering a range of psychological services in public schools
Ability and desire to teach graduate courses in assessment for intervention, developmental psychopathology, to supervise field experiences, and to direct thesis research
Evidence of potential to establish a productive line of research that involves graduate students.
A commitment to training culturally competent school psychologists
Superior interpersonal skills to allow for collaboration across departmental, college and university programs and community schools and agencies
Eligibility for, or possession of, a license to practice psychology independently

DESIRABLE QUALIFICATIONS:

Experiences interacting with diverse populations
Ability to teach graduate courses in child and adolescent neuropsychology

To apply for this position, refer to posting 0401919 at <https://joblink.jmu.edu> and follow electronic application procedures. Review of candidates will begin November 01, 2007, and will continue until a qualified candidate is identified. Position begins August 25, 2008. Please direct any inquiries about the position to:

Dr. Tammy Gilligan
Chair, School Psychology Search
Department of Graduate Psychology-MS 7401
James Madison University
Harrisonburg VA 22807
email: gilligtd@jmu.edu
phone: (540) 568-6564